

Trinity High School English Department
Summer 2009 Reading Requirement
IB Junior Year English

Reading ability is a widely cited factor in determining academic success in several disciplines. To foster language skills, critical reflection, and a love of literature, the English Department requires IB English juniors to read the following texts this summer:

The Grapes of Wrath by John Steinbeck (Penguin; 978-0143039433)

Long Day's Journey into Night by Eugene O'Neill (Yale University; 978-0300093056)

Chronicle of a Death Foretold by Gabriel Garcia Marquez (Vintage; 978-1400034710)

Please purchase the editions indicated. Students are asked to read actively by highlighting and annotating their texts. In addition, students must complete a journal entry of at least 6-8 pages which examines the following question:

Setting, both time and place, along with the culture therein, shape the characters and events in the three works you are reading this summer. Giving specific examples, show how setting operates in each work and include ways in which the author's style contributes to that effect.

- Your entry should be at least 6-8 pages written, 2-3 pages devoted to each work.
- Do not merely summarize the plot. Analyze key passages throughout each work.
- Make sure to provide an introduction, thesis statement, and conclusion in your answer. Your body paragraphs should relate directly to your thesis statement.
- Avoid first and second person in your answer (I, me, you, yours, we, etc).
- Use a variety of word choice and sentences.
- Make sure you provide direct quotes and page numbers from each work. Your answer should contain at least 4 quotes from each novel. When you cite your quote, use proper MLA format. For example, a quote from The Grapes of Wrath should be followed by the name of the author and the page number (Steinbeck 30).
- Be ready to verify that the work is your own original effort.

Upon returning to school in August, please be prepared to submit your journal to your English teacher for assessment along with evidence of conscientious annotations in your paperbacks. Annotations may include questions, comments, insights, comparisons to others works you have read, and definitions of unfamiliar words. Highlight significant passages of character description, conflict, imagery, symbolism, and dialogue. Consider as well how the structure of each work contributes to its meaning. Please direct any questions to Ms. Rose Crnkovich, English Department Chair, ph: (708) 453-8392; e-mail: ib@trinityhs.org.

Wishing you a very happy and productive summer!
